AIMS AND SCOPE

The aim of the journal is to provide an international forum for Jewish thought, philosophy, and intellectual history. The historical range will not be limited to any given period, nor will there be any religious or political orientation determining the acceptance or rejection of articles. The emphasis will be on high scholarly standards with an interest in issues of interpretation and the contemporary world. It is to be expected that articles will cover philosophy, biblical studies, mysticism, literary criticism, political theory, sociology and anthropology.

Notes for contributors can be found at the back of the journal.
